AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best remedy that has ever been discovered for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Whooping-Cough, Croup, Asthma, and Consumption. Indeed, so certain are the virtues of this medicine, when timely used, that we do not hesitate to recommend it to the public as a safe antidote for all diseases of the lungs and throat that are not beyond the reach of human skill. Many of these diseases, which are terminating in Consumption, and carrying off their victims by thousands, might be cured by this remedy, if taken in season. But when the lungs are once hopelessly diseased, and the fatal tubercles are deposited in them, no human power can prevent the usual result. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will, however, even in these cases, relieve the patient, and render his last days comfortable.

WHIG NOMINATIONS.

FOR GOVERNOR,

William G. Crosby

OF BELFAST.

FOR CONGRESS

ISRAEL WASHBURN Jr.

WHIG NATIONAL CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Whig members of Congress, held in the Senate Chamber on Friday evening April 9, 1852, Hon. Willie P. Mangum, Senator from North Carolina, was called to the Chair, and Joseph R. Chandler, of Pennsylvania, and Alfred Dockery, of North Carolina, were appointed Secretaries. After some preliminary discussion, it was resolved that when the meeting adjourn, it adjourn to meet on Tuesday evening, the 20th inst.

On Tuesday evening, April 20, the Whig members of Congress assembled according to adjournment, and the subjoining resolution, recommending the time and place for holding the Whig National Convention, was adopted, and the following order made:

Ordered, That the Chairman of this meeting cause the resolution this evening adopted, recommending the time and place for holding the Whig National Convention, to be inserted in the whig newspapers of this district, signed by himself, and countersigned by the secretaries.

Resolved, That it be recommended that the Whig National Convention, for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, to be held in the city of Baltimore, on Wednesday, the 16th day of June next.

WILLIE P. MANGUM, Chairman

JOSEPH CHANDLER, } Secretaries.
ALFRED DOCKERY, }

Loco Nominations for the Presidency.

The nomination of Gen. Pierce, by the loco National Convention, after having balloted some fifty times, in which their strongest men had been tried and run off the course, is an evidence of weakness which cannot be denied or concealed.

The statesmen of that party have no chance of success. Their National Conventions and their two-thirds rule form a system of machinery which enables the rampant and aspiring politicians to kill off their leading men by detail, in the hope thereby to effect their own elevation; but which in this case, has happened to cause the friends of the killed to come down to the lowest of the stata of politicians, and to take one who had no direct hand in effecting their destruction. It is a high handed political experiment akin to jugglery, and betrays a want of confidence in each other, among the leading men of the loco party, which the masses of the people will not fail to see and remember. It may be that the party management and the strength of party attachments and the influence of promised patronage, this nomination will be sustained. But we doubt it. The game has been too open and barefaced, and the change too sudden and violent, sectional and personal blows have been dealt with too deadly a force to admit of the leading statesmen of the party, who can have now nothing to hope for and nothing to expect, giving any very ready or earnest support to this nomination. The force and unity and influence of the loco party are broken, and the party must go to decay. Its bad committed wrongs enough to the country before, but this self-imposed slaughter within itself fills up the measure of iniquity, and nothing remains now but for it to go to its own place.

Election is much to be preferred to no nomination. We feared that none would be made, and that the party would run two or three of their best men, in favorable sections of the country, and throw the election of President into the House of Representatives, where they have a majority, and thus render an election very probable if not certain. Such a movement would have taken the pith and marrow of the bones from the campaign, and left the whigs without, what they will now have, the enthusiasm of hope.

We know, somewhat, the modern plan of locofocoism, and expect that there will be unwonted efforts to make it appear that there is enthusiasm in their party, and that this nomination is, of all things, most desirable. A few pints of charcoal and saltpetre have been burnt in this city as a sort of signal gun of this, at the last expiring hours of the week on Saturday night.

But who does not know that the leaders of the loco party work for the spoils, and that they will have little heart to work with much zeal now, because they still have and can have but little hope of success against the nomination of either of the prominent whig candidates, and at all on the nomination of Gen. Scott. Then, again, they understand very well that if they succeed in the election of Gen. Pierce, that New England having so much, must relinquish nearly all expectation of receiving more. Governor Hubbard's anticipated Foreign Mission will be likely to sing rather small, under the present order of affairs. Those missions will be needed as plasters to heal sores in States out of New England. The South and the West if they cannot be honored must be fatted.

The mass of the party cannot have any enthusiasm, any zeal heart-work in this nomination. Gen. Frank Pierce has made no mark upon his age—has illustrated no page in its history—has wrought no monument of fame—has sown no seeds in the hearts of the people. Who in all the great West, who in the South, who among the mountains and plains, has read or heard of Frank Pierce of New Hampshire. In strangest wonder they will inquire, and the only answer must be, even by the best informed, that he was a mustering General in the Mexican War. He cannot even claim the poor merit of a letter from Gen. Jackson, of his fitness and probable success, unless indeed such letters are manufactured, like printed subscription papers of foreign paupers, to suit any exigency which may arise.

This repitition of the Polk excitement will not succeed. The nomination therefore, suits us to a charm. It is what the whigs could most have wished for. They had defeated Gen. Cass once, and had he been nominated, the whole pride and enthusiasm of the party would have been doubly aroused, to wipe out the indignity and to have crowned him with honor. The rhetoric associations of the party, the party war-cry, and the disastrous battle would have nerved every man of the party to intensified activity, heroic zeal and indomitable action. Thanks to the flattering politicians, the managing, marring men of the loco party for relieving the whigs from the contest with the nomination of Gen. Cass. He knew all the ropes and he was everywhere known, and with him the struggle must have been severe, if not hopeless. Now the skies are bright for the whigs. In a few brief days their banner will be given to the breeze, and with a name inscribed upon it which awakens a thousand historic associations—a name associated with the patriotism of the country, and dear to the inmost heart of the people. Let us wait then, in patience and in hope, and be prepared to work with a justly and appropriately awakened zeal and earnestness in having something worth working for and worthy to stir the heroic element in the mind of the people.

Pension Laws.

MR. EDITOR:—The article of H. H. M., in this morning's paper, is of so undecided a character that it is difficult to learn from it whether he intends to admit or deny the truth of my corrections. If the latter be the true construction, he illustrates the poetical assertion that he

> "Who is convinced against his will
> Is of the same opinion still."

or tries to be.

As I am not ambitious of a newspaper discussion of the subject, I will merely say that the entire accuracy of every position I took can be substantiated to the perfect satisfaction of every intelligent person by the individual whose name is so freely used by H. H. M. and by the laws which he is ready to exhibit, or if necessary, explain, and that I laying claim to extraordinary sagacity in pointing out errors so palpable that he who runs may read.

June 7, 1852.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN. A letter from Hong Kong says that nearly all of thirty seven whalers from the Arctic seas that have touched at that port the present season believe that Sir John Franklin is safe. They think he has penetrated through the ice barrier into inner waters, where he will not be reached until a mild season arrives, which they say the present will be. Most of them have now departed. They give accounts of the Esquimaux differing from the American continent, and back regions carrying their boats on the ice and launching them when they meet open water. They all confirm the fact that the whales found in the Herrings Straits and Baffin's Bay are the same species, as they have never been seen south of lat. 22, thus proving the existence of a passage.

MR. WEBSTER AND THE GRAND FARMERS.—The Cleveland Herald says the Hon. Daniel Webster has replied to the invitation to deliver the address before the Ohio State Board of Agriculture. He expresses a strong desire to visit Ohio and witness the many improvements since he was last there, and adds that unless unavoidable circumstances prevent he will be in Cleveland during the State Fair. Mr. Webster's engagements will render it impossible for him to deliver the official, formal address before the Board; but, if present, he will speak to the people on Agricultural topics.

☞ The Universalist College in Massachusetts is called the Tufts's College, from the gentleman who gives the land on which the buildings are to be located. It is to be in Somerville or Medford. The lines of several towns run across or near the site.

The criminal trials. The following indictments are pending: Assault 1, Bad Roads 1, Common Sellers 27, Forgery 1, Innkeeper 1, Larceny 4, Nuisance 2, Resisting an Officer 1.

☞ Jimmy Carr says, he ordered the guns fired on Saturday evening. We should think the idea originated in some crazed brain. To fire guns on account of the nomination of such a man as Frank. Pierce!

CALIFORNIA NEWS. Among the more important acts passed by the California Legislature were the following:

An act funding the civil debt of the State.—This law contemplates a redemption of the bonds now outstanding, which bear a monthly interest of three per cent, and an absorption of all the State scrip which is now in circulation, or which may be put afloat up to December next. This scrip to be redeemed by an issue of seven per cent. bonds.

An act securing foreign miners. This law compels foreign miners, who have not taken the initiatory steps towards becoming naturalized citizens, to obtain a State license at the rate of three dollars per month.

An act in relation to fugitives from labor.—This law authorizes the removal of slaves, which were brought to California previous to its admission into the Union. One year from the 1st of May is allowed for such removal.

An act providing for the collection of a revenue for State purposes.

An act providing for the sale of 500,000 acres of land, set aside for school purposes. This law provides for the sale of the school lands at two dollars per acre, payable in State bonds or scrip. The first warrants to be issued by the State can be laid upon any vacant lands belonging to the United States, which are now unoccupied, to the extent of five hundred thousand acres.

An act for the relief of immigrants. This law authorizes the Governor to expend for the relief of immigrants from the Atlantic States, via the Pacific, the present year, the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

The accounts for supplies and services rendered in the Eldorado and other Indian wars to the amount of six hundred thousand dollars, have been authorized to be audited, and seven per cent. bonds issued therefor, but no provisions have been made for the payment of either principal or interest. It is however believed that the United States will provide for them.

"Beacon Sockbasin—Old Sock."

SOCRATES, MICHIGAN, a veteran Tarrasine, very respectable good natured Indian, is dead. All the people hereabouts know him. His children, who have caused him so much anxiety are now grown, and capable of taking care of themselves. He is to years old, and would like to leave this vale of tears on good terms with every body. He thus talks:

"First all my boat burnt up Penobscot river. Mostly burnt up my paint too. Money scarce to Oldtown. Only then cant live there—nobody help themselves. Me go to Boston, I spose, right straight off—Try. Old Sock—he be good steady man—he no drink nothin. He going to Boston, he get little money out of every body—State House, Court House, Gubernor, Lawyers—every body help him along. He seventy three years of age. Government when he make treat with Indians—coming on from Boston, New York or somewhere—me young man—me given Penobscot river, he support me when me sick. So he say. Twice he catchem my house in top, the other day—two men tells me get 'em out. By by fire burnem all up, so me must look out ahead. State of Maine no help me—western folks help me all round—nobody help me! cant get built another one when my house all burn up. If State of Maine helpem me that, I shall be glad."

Irreverent Association.

In an article eulogistic of Kossuth, and in condemnatory of the New York Christian Observer for questioning his infallibility, Mrs. Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," ventures, in the last "Independent," upon a comparison, which will jar rather unpleasantly upon reverent Christian minds. She says:

"Time was, when of old, the shores of Jordan rang with the tones of a mightier voice than that of Kossuth. One who spake as never man spake, announced in words unequalled in wisdom, that obedience of universal brotherhood of which Kossuth is now the Confessor. Never had such eloquence been heard. Rude nations were charmed, gross hearts were melted, lawless wills were silenced, and those sent out maliciously to take him back almost awed and subdued, and the Chief Priests and Rulers cried out in their vexation—'Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? Behold the world is gone after him.' But it seems there were men of a similar range of thought with the New York Observer, who, after all this eloquence, could think of nothing to say, but, 'Behold a glutonous man and a wine-bibber!' What, could have been said to these men in those times, when they had heard all and seen all, and this was all the result they could come to—all they were capable of thinking or saying. One thing is certain, that the particular style of viewing things did not belong to saints and followers of the Lamb in those days, and it does not seem on the face of it very probable that it does now. Yet now, as then, the word of the Master holds good, 'Wisdom is justified of her children.'"

This perpetual attempt on the part of the Kossuth-ites to associate his mission with that of the Saviour of men cannot have any other effect upon thinking Christians than to offend and repel them. It was bad enough for Kossuth himself to draw parallels continually between his own career and that of Jesus of Nazareth, and to compare the criticisms upon the Hungarian's extravagant attempts to dragoon the country into a foreign war, to the presentation of vinegar on a sponge to the Divine sufferer on the cross! But we can make allowance for the hallucination of an enthusiast, who has surrendered himself to one great idea and has no thought for any other. When a woman, however, professing Christianity, and claiming, as we may fairly infer from the tone of her writings, superior moral and religious insight, undertakes to associate the doubtful pretensions of Kossuth with the mission of the Saviour, the sentiment, which such an approximation calls up, is not far remote from disgust.

Surely Kossuth and his champions can urge his claims and vindicate his character, in all sincerity and earnestness, without these eternal comparisons, which freeze the blood of believers without winning the profane to sympathy. So far from seeing any parallel points in the character and career of Kossuth and the Saviour, we can see nothing but antagonism. Of the latter a forgotten poet has said:

"He came unto His own, and His own received Him not.
He stood among the throng and wept, but no one pitied Him."

Surely there is nothing in the querulousness of the Governor's—in his classical approaches against Mr. Clay for the publication of the conversation in his sick room—in the flippant allusions to war—and in the still more recent reception of the Boston Committee,—Why didn't you come before?—to induce us to characterize Kossuth as a "Christ-like" missionary. We hope that he and his feminine friends (Miss Grace Greenwood, also, compares him to the Saviour), will see the propriety of finding some other forms of speech for the commendation of himself and his cause to public favor.—[Boston Transcript.

Hon. Ned Daw.

Removing this gentleman from the Mayoralty does not discourage him or destroy his ambition. He has accepted invitations to lecture in Richmond, Va., Washington City and Baltimore.

The Portland Watchman says:

"Mr. Dow triumphs in his defeat—his opponents fast becoming his friends—all weak and all mad overmore sweet by his principles. His reports as Mayor will be looked back to with wonder and admiration, and himself in due time be regarded and honored at home and abroad as he deserves. A Law that is in its legitimate operation, empties our prisons and poor houses, saves millions of property, and lives to society, will tell with emphasis and most beneficently upon the present and all future generations, and forever link the name of its author with the welfare of mankind.

A NEW IDEA IN AGRICULTURE.—The Steward on board a United States steamer in the Gulf of Mexico, has produced several crops of potatoes by the following novel mode of cultivation:

"He procured a common crockery crate," a bundle of straw, and a few eyes of the potato, and went to work forming it on board ship!—The process for cultivating them is this: Fill your crate with alternate layers of straw and the eyes of the potato, commencing at the bottom with a layer of about six inches in depth of straw, and then a layer of the eyes—the eyes being placed about two inches apart over the surface of the straw—then another layer of straw on the top. Keep the straw always moist, and in about two months you will have about six bushels of sound, good potatoes of the first water."

☞ On Sunday, Rev. H. C. Tilton, of the Summer-street church, (Methodist) administered the ordinance of baptism by immersion to three persons—by sprinkling, to six. Rev. D. H. Mansfield, (Methodist) of the Brick Chapel, administered the ordinance by immersion, to three—by sprinkling, to two.

☞ We observe that operations have commenced on the "Bucksie lot," in the erection of a building to be occupied by the High School for Girls. It is to be fifty by eighty feet, upon the ground. We trust this school house will be an ornament to the city.

☞ John O'Mara was tried yesterday before the Supreme Judicial Court, for being a common seller of intoxicating liquors, and convicted. He excepted to the ruling of the Court and the cause went up.

☞ The annual meeting of the Penobscot County Conference of Congregational Churches will be held in Brewer Village, this week, commencing on Tuesday (8th inst.) at 10 A. M. and continuing its session until Wednesday evening.

Work, Not Wait.

BY GEORGE MORRIS.

"Wait a little longer," —Sumner Soto.

Full long the promise has gone forth,
Of better times and brighter days,
When honor shall attend on worth,
And most reward on honest ways.
The people have been told to wait
Until the golden age appears;
To wait! Why, that has been their fate
For some six thousand years.

To wait is good, to wait is brave!
To wait, it is the hero's part
But waiting never freed one slave;
Nor healed one single wounded heart.
O Poet, write thou Work for Wait,
In humble faith and action dread.
The worker is the lord of fate:
The man who waits will fail at need.

COOKING STOVE

THE best Cook Stove ever introduced to this or any other people.

Having secured the sole agency of this very desirable Stove, I take great pleasure in offering it to my customers and the public. This Stove was invented expressly for this eastern market, by those experienced and expert Stove manufacturers Messrs. Eastes & Whittier, who know, and have appreciated the wants of this enlightened people. It is now offered to the public with the fullest confidence in its merits, and its superiority over every other Cooking apparatus ever introduced. Its conveniences for Boiling, Broiling, Frying, &c., are not surpassed, and its extensive and beautiful Oven for Baking and Roasting, will at once recommend itself to the Ladies. One very important feature is, it has very stout and smooth Casting, and being manufactured in this city, can, at all times be repaired, if ever necessary, at a trifling expense without subjecting one to wait for castings to be ordered from New York, Rhode Island, or elsewhere. Every Stove is warranted one year, and one not giving entire satisfaction may be returned and the money will be refunded after 30 days trial.

—ALSO—

A great variety of other patterns of cooking Stoves, such as the
Our State, Bay State, Empire State,
Granite State, State of Maine, &c.

All or any of which will be sold at extremely low prices.

Elevated Oven Stoves—Rumples 3 and 4 Boiler and two Oven—Boston two oven Stoves, Forrest-Queen, &c.—and that very beautiful pattern of Cottage Parlor Cook Stove, and in fact every variety of Stove for Cooking or warming, worthy of notice, can be found at the Central Street Stove and Furnace Depot, No 16, 17, and 19.

Moore's Essence of Life.

THE Great Remedy for Coughs—Colds—Whooping Cough, and Bowel Complaints. The Whooping Cough can be cured in a week if taken at the Commencement of the disease. Thousands die annually who might be saved if they checked their Colds at the beginning. This can be done by the use of MOORE'S ESSENCE OF LIFE—this is no humbug—witness the good that it has accomplished the past few years in your own vicinity, where it is known. Whooping Cough and Bowel Complaints. It is sure to cure if taken in season. If the reader has a child afflicted with the Whooping Cough let him procure one bottle and try it, and if that proves satisfactory obtain another, persevering in its use until a cure is effected. You cannot help being satisfied. For common Colds and Coughs it is unsurpassed. Bowel Complaints will be cured when, of course,
